CORAM : HON'BLE MR.JUSTICE J.R.VORA

Date of decision: 02/03/2005

ORAL JUDGEMENT

1. This Special Civil Application under Article 226 of the Constitution of India has been filed by the petitioner challenging his detention in pursuance of the order passed against him by Police Commissioner, Vadodara City, on 06th October, 2004, in exercise of powers conferred upon him under Section 3(1) of the Gujarat Prevention of Anti Social Activities Act, 1985 (PASA Act for short). The petitioner is under detention as dangerous person from 06th of October, 2004 in pursuance of the above order.

2. The grounds of detention as placed on record reveal that the detaining authority took into consideration two types of materials to arrive at subjective satisfaction. Firstly, the detaining authority took into consideration, two criminal cases registered against the petitioner under the Indian Penal Code and secondly two incamera statements of witnesses recorded by sponsoring authority on 1st of October,2004 and 2nd of October 2004 as verified by the detaining authority on 3rd of October,2004. The identity of the witnesses is not disclosed by the detaining authority claiming privilege under Sec. 9(2) of the PASA Act.

3. Two criminal offences were registered against the petitioner one before Vaghodiya Police Station on 17th of September, 2004 for the offences punishable under Sections 447, 379 and 114 of the Indian Penal Code where the allegation was, the petitioner was involved in theft of aluminium wires of about 700 kgs. The second case was registered before Jawaharnagar Police Station on 18th of September, 2004 under Section 379, 447 and 114 of the Indian Penal Code and allegation was that the petitioner was involved in the theft metal of iron and aluminium, worth of Rs.7,000/-. In both the cases, detaining authority examined thoroughly the investigation papers and concluded that the petitioner was habitually committing the offences of theft of aluminium wires, etc.

4. Secondly, the detaining authority, as above said, relied upon two incamera statements. The first witness referred to an incident occurred on 5th of September, 2004. At about 3.00 p.m. the witness was passing through Highway No.8 near Vaghodiya cross road, the petitioner and his accomplices approached the witness with two bags of iron scrap and stated that the iron scraps be kept by the witness and petitioner be given Rs. 500 by the witness. The witness knew the activities of the petitioner and, therefore, he refused to keep the iron scraps and give money. On refusal of the witness, the petitioner and his accomplices accosted and started beating the petitioner. On raising shouts of help by the petitioner, a crowd was gathered, and on noticing such crowd being gathered, the petitioner and his accomplices with open knife rushed towards the crowd to beat them. On account of fear, people started running helter skelter and normal life was disrupted. Atmosphere of terror and fear was created. On finding opportunity, the witness escaped from the place.

5. The second witness referred to an incident occurred on 8th of September, 2004. The witness had been to vegetable market for purchasing vegetable. At about 7.00 p.m. there he was approached by the petitioner and his accomplices and on suspicion that the witness was providing information to the police about illegal activities of committing theft, the witness was beaten. The shouts of witness for help, attracted crowd, but on noticing the crowd being gathered, the petitioner and his accomplices rushed towards the crowd with open knife to beat them, so people started running helter - skelter, resulting disruption of normal life and atmosphere of terror and fear was created. On finding opportunity, the petitioner was escaped from the place.

6. From the above materials, the detaining authority came to the conclusion that the petitioner was engaged in illegal activities of committing theft of iron metal and scraps and was a habitual offender. The detaining authority also came to the conclusion that the petitioner was headstrong person within the meaning of the PASA Act. The detaining authority concluded that the petitioner was a headstrong and ferocious person and was keeping deadly weapons with him. It was also alleged that the petitioner formed a gang of headstrong persons and along with the gang, committed the offences of theft and was in the habit of picking up quarrels with the innocent citizens and to beat them. The detaining authority concluded that the activities of the petitioner were prejudicial to the maintenance of public order and such activities were required to be prevented forthwith. After considering other alternative remedies available against the petitioner under the general law, the detaining authority came to the conclusion that there was no other alternative, except to detain the petitioner under the PASA Act as dangerous person. The detaining authority, therefore, passed an order of detention of the petitioner as aforesaid, which is under challenge in this petition.

7. Learned advocate Ms.Banna Dutta for the petitioner and learned AGP Mrs.H.B.Punani for the respondent No.3 were heard at length.

8. Out of various grounds urged on behalf of the petitioner to challenge the order of detention as opposed and controverted by the learned AGP, it appears that this petition can be examined and disposed of on the sole issue that whether there was credible and cogent materials placed before the detaining authority to come to the conclusion that by the activities of the petitioner, the public order was disturbed.

9. To reach to the subjective satisfaction that the dangerous activities of the petitioner were prejudicial to the maintenance of public order, the detaining authority must rely upon cogent and credible material indicating that the activities of the detenu directly or indirectly were causing or were likely to cause any harm, danger or widespread or feeling of insecurity among the general public or any section thereof or a grave or widespread danger to life property or the public health. While undertaking this exercise, the detaining authority must apply his mind about the difference between the cases falling in the category of "breach of law and order" and the cases falling in the category of "breach of public order."

10. True that as many as two cases came to be registered against the petitioner for theft of metal,etc. It was also alleged that in these cases, metals alleged to be stolen were recovered during investigation. The detaining authority took into consideration the investigation papers in all these two cases. Therefore, the prime issue for consideration is, the activities reveal through the investigating papers in both the cases can be branded to be activities disturbing the public order as noted above. Undoubtedly, these two cases came to be filed against the petitioner for theft of iron metal, scraps, etc. These cases are pending for disposal according to law. The activities disclosed through the investigating papers in these two cases may be an offence being the activities against penal statute of country, but it could not at all be said that the activities of the petitioner reveal through the investigating papers formed an offence under the penal law are the activities disturbing the public order to the extent that widespread danger to life and property could be inferred. At the most filing of these cases being offences may be labelled as breach of law and order for which the petitioner is going to be tried and may be punished, if found guilty. But as aforesaid, the act constituting the offence cannot be said to have affected the even tempo of life of community, therefore, filing of the cases may be two in numbers against the petitioner, have no bearing at all on the question of maintenance of public order.

11. The rest of the material, which relied upon by the detaining authority is in the form of two incamera statements. While any activity is to be judged within the scope, as to whether such activities disturbed the public order, it becomes the duty of the detaining authority to consider fall out, reach and impact of the activities, revealing through materials placed before him and then come to the conclusion that whether potentiality of the activities alleged was capable of disturbing the public order. On going through minutely and carefully and applying the above said principle of law, it clearly appears that two incidents narrated through incamera statements were more individual disputes than to involve the society at large or disturbing the even tempo of life of the community. Employing phrases by the witnesses like disruption of traffic and normal life and spreading of fear and terror, or employing such phrases by the detaining authority in the reasons, could not stretch the alleged activities to the extent of such activities disturbing the public order. While such activities are scanned through its fall out, reach and impact, it is clear that these are not the activities disturbing the public order. Therefore, the potentiality of the act alleged through incamera statements, even from the bare reading of them, do not disclose capability to disturb the even tempo of life of the community or society at large or section of the society. It is clear that from the said activity, neither widespread danger to the society nor dangerousness or harmfulness affecting the society could be inferred from such activities of the petitioner disclosing through incamera statements. Therefore, even after taking two incamera statements on their face value, they are unable to convince that the activities disclosed by the statements were prejudicial to the maintenance of public order. At the most the acts disclosed through the statements, may be breach of law and order and could be taken care by the general law.

12. In the matter of Ashokbhai Jivraj @ Jivabhai Solanki Vs. Police Commissioner, Surat & Ors., reported in 2000 (1) G.L.H. 393, wherein after considering many decisions of the Apex Court, the Division Bench of this Court has observed in paragraphs No.20 and 21 as under.

> "20. The Division Bench then considered the law laid down by the Apex Court in Piyush Kantilal v. Commissioner of Police, Ahmedabad City, AIR 1989 SC 491 and T. Devaki v. State of Tamil Nadu, AIR 1990 SC 1086. In Piyush Kantilal, similar circumstances were before the detaining authority and it was alleged that detention of the detenu was necessary in order to prevent activities of the detenu in maintenance of public order. Similarly, in T. Devaki, panic amongst people in the hall in which the incident took place and in nearby vicinity was high lighted. It was also alleged that people were scared and had run helter skelter. In spite of such allegations the Supreme Court held that they were not cases of maintenance of public order and hence, an action of preventive detention was uncalled for.

21. The Division Bench, following the above cases, observed that in the opinion of the Supreme Court, the selective phrases in the statements would not take out the case from maintenance of law and order to that of maintenance of public order and as power of detention could not be used for maintenance of law and order, but only for public order, the order of detention made in such circumstances could not be upheld.

Again, in Mustakmiya Jabbarmiya Shaikh v. M.M.Mehta, Commissioner of Police and others, 1995 (2) GLR 1268 (SC), the Supreme Court considered the relevant decisions on point including the decision in Arun Ghosh v. State of West Bengal, 1979 (1) SCC 98 and held that stray incidents would not affect "public order" and order of detention cannot be passed in such cases."

13. The present set of facts are squarely covered by the above said decision of this Court in the case of Ashokbhai Jivraj @ Jivabhai Solanki [supra]. In this view of the matter, the subjective satisfaction arrived at by the detaining authority in respect of disturbance of public order by the alleged activities of the petitioner, cannot be said to be legal, valid and in accordance with law. The order under challenge, therefore, is required to be quashed and set aside on this ground alone.

14. In the result, the petition is allowed. The order passed by the Police Commissioner, Vadodara City on 06th October, 2004 against the petitioner in exercise of powers under Section 3(1) of the PASA Act is hereby quashed and set aside. The detenu - Satish Omprakash Aggraval is hereby ordered to be set at liberty forthwith

if he is not required to be detained in jail for any other purpose. Rule is made absolute. Direct service is permitted.
